

Will and Mandy Johnson
Missionaries to Japan

Missions Focus: Teaching English at Tamagawa Seigakuin

In addition to their weekly teaching responsibilities, Mandy and Will take part in extra-school activities such as supervising activities, coaching for contests, tutoring, and free conversations with students. They participate in school chapel and other religious activities as well as the local Church of God congregation.

Mandy comes from a strong Christian home. Her faith has been nurtured by her family and her church community. She understands her ministry to be nurturing relationships and creating authentic friendships through teaching piano and worshipping.

Will is a missionary kid who grew up cross culturally in a variety of places: Asia, Europe, and the Middle East. His faith journey is a byproduct of his diverse intercultural upbringing. He has a desire to serve and be a cross-cultural bridge for Christ. He is a 2010 graduate of Anderson University with a degree in Fine Arts.
