

Norberto and Julie Kurrle
Missionaries to Paraguay

Missions Focus:

The word “leadership” has become crucial in discipleship. John Maxwell said, “Everything rises and falls with leadership. This is the reason we are training up young leaders for full and part- time Christian and community service. In 2011 we started ICCI (Instituto Cristiano de Capacitacion Integral), a bi-vocational Bible institute.

Paraguay is one of the least evangelized countries in Latin America. According to Latin America Mission (LAM), only 3 percent of Paraguay is evangelical. One reason for this is Paraguay’s thirty-five-year dictatorship that ended in 1989; however, the country continues to be plagued by governmental corruption and spiritual blindness.

Norberto grew up as a missionary kid in Argentina and Paraguay. For Julie, who was born and raised in Michigan, the mission field has provided many wonderfully challenging and exciting experiences.

Norberto and Julie both felt called to missions before they met. Shortly after finishing seminary, they decided to put their education into intercultural practice. They decided to drive to South America from Anderson, Indiana, to experience God at work in Latin America. It was an exceptional adventure! They arrived in Paraguay on November 9, 2002.

The Kurrle’s were blessed with a son, Timothy, in 2005.

Birthdays

Norberto	June 22
Julie	July 22
Timmy	November 23

Anniversary

August 12, 2000

Project # 42.12243

Norberto and Julie Kurrle
Missionaries to Paraguay

Missions Focus:

The word “leadership” has become crucial in discipleship. John Maxwell said, “Everything rises and falls with leadership. This is the reason we are training up young leaders for full and part- time Christian and community service. In 2011 we started ICCI (Instituto Cristiano de Capacitacion Integral), a bi-vocational Bible institute.

Paraguay is one of the least evangelized countries in Latin America. According to Latin America Mission (LAM), only 3 percent of Paraguay is evangelical. One reason for this is Paraguay’s thirty-five-year dictatorship that ended in 1989; however, the country continues to be plagued by governmental corruption and spiritual blindness.

Norberto grew up as a missionary kid in Argentina and Paraguay. For Julie, who was born and raised in Michigan, the mission field has provided many wonderfully challenging and exciting experiences.

Norberto and Julie both felt called to missions before they met. Shortly after finishing seminary, they decided to put their education into intercultural practice. They decided to drive to South America from Anderson, Indiana, to experience God at work in Latin America. It was an exceptional adventure! They arrived in Paraguay on November 9, 2002.

The Kurrle’s were blessed with a son, Timothy, in 2005.

Birthdays

Norberto	June 22
Julie	July 22
Timmy	November 23

Anniversary

August 12, 2000

Project # 42.12243